

And there's nothing you can do about it.

...actually, there is.

A system that produces the same outputs across fifty years and multiple governments isn't broken. It is working exactly as intended.

The usual explanations stop one level too soon.

There is a framework for understanding what is happening to Britain.

There are things one person can actually do — starting today, without anyone's permission.

- Follow your conscience in the ordinary moments.
- Vote with your wallet or purse.
- Do not trade with those whom you feel cause damage — to people, to nature or the nation.
- Treat the person in front of you as someone whose existence matters.

These are not gestures. They are the only things that have ever actually worked against a system like this one.
